“ I remember everytime I would be on my 6 hour long break till I clocked into work Rosie would stroll in around 9am and I would eat random snacks and she would be like oooo Angie what is that I would always tell her pull a chair and help me finish the food; Rosie would always laugh and the best at busting people's chops you will be missed dearly 💔

“ Rose meant a lot to the people of stop and shop. I remember one year we all brought food in for her birthday. She didn't know. She went over there and snuck me and her a small treat. Handed it to me and said "shhhh. But there is food over there." Me, "rose, do you know why there is food over there?" "No."(With the most innocent face she could have made). Me, "it's all for you. Happy birthday." Then she almost cried because we all care about her. I loved her so much. She was so smart, helpful and every now and then she would talk smack about someone. You would never expect it from her, which made it funny. I miss her, and will for a long time.

“ Rest in PEACE Rosie....The world was a better place with you in it. I know you are smiling as usual, and sometimes with that sly smile and the undertone of a chuckle. You are an old soul, and I know you are where you came from and belong. Heaven is where you will watch over the rest of us who knew you, even if it was for a short time or on and off or maybe just in passing as a caretaker. As I always say out loud when something has reminded me of you and I would automatically smile,,,,,Awwwww Rosie!
Love eternally,

Rosie I have been having sense of you around me, and know you are watching over me or trying to elbow me like you did a few times when we vacationed together all those years ago. No use to look at pictures for memories, you will surely be meeting me when my time comes. One thing is , I will never eat liver. LOL
