“ Santa, I miss you every single day. You literally were the kindest person that I have ever got to meet. I miss texting with you every single day and seeing you mostly every single day. You were literally such a great friend/grandfather even though you hated when I called you that Imfao. I miss our car rides and you always yelling at me for something I did wrong. You were truly an angel Santa and you will never ever be forgotten. It's coming up on your one year Santa and it still pains my heart every single day. I think about you constantly Santa. I am always still checking my phone waiting for a text from you or me calling you a billion times and you getting pissed off. I love you Santa and I'll be there with you in time. ”

I expect they were both wearing those smiles the moment they reunited.

Bill, you were a loving and caring father to our children and my most faithful friend. Always a gentleman (except when you weren't). I will miss our long conversations, your playful teasing and the thoughtful texts on every birthday and holiday. Through all the ups and dreadful downs in life I am grateful we could remain close.

Love to our special girl. I love and miss you both eternally.
